LOOK AHEAD TO Spring Color!

Part of the joy of gardening is the anticipation of the rewards to follow. The easiest way to insure a flower-filled spring garden is to plant bulbs now. Be sure to shop for bulbs soon, while assortments still provide a good range of types and colors. Delay may mean disappointment. Make your selections from our Fall Planting Guide or from the stock in our store. It's easy to choose your favorite colors from the pictures displayed with each variety.

Don't Miss Our CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW!

Midseason and late varieties are blooming now. Choose the varieties you want for your garden from the largest collection on the Peninsula.

The image shows three Bellingham Hybrid Lilies. The top flower is in full bloom, showing six petals with a vibrant orange-red color and numerous yellow spots. The middle flower is also in bloom, slightly lower and to the right, with similar coloration and spotting. The bottom flower is partially open, showing the yellow base of the petals and the red spots. The flowers are supported by dark green stems with some leaves visible at the bottom. The background is a plain, light-colored surface.

Bellingham HYBRID Lilies

From the finest native California and Oregon lilies these delightfully fragrant, charming and beautiful new lilies were raised. First selected and hybridized by Luther Burbank, then re-selected and cross-bred by David Griffith of our United States Department of Agriculture and finally perfected for your garden by JAN DE GRAAFF, famed Oregon lily grower and hybridizer, these lilies have been endowed with new hybrid vigor and disease-resistance.

Plant them four inches deep, in full sun or light shade, in any well-drained, good garden soil. Leave them undisturbed for years and they will make gracious groups of tall, nodding lilies, fine as garden subjects and for flower arrangements.
